- Only the original Low Stress Stockhandling schools can promise you this

A LSS school is a remarkable 2-day program that can leave you wanting to do stock work, seeing the economic benefits in the kilos gained and the ease in which stockhandling can be achieved. See how to make more $$$$ from your stock.

Before it is possible to get our animals in the right frame of mind we first have to get our mind and attitude right.

As Low Stress Stockhandling travelled extensively throughout Australia and overseas, conducting workshops, we have observed some extremely competent stockmen and women.

Wherever we go we see a familiar pattern emerge in the way people work animals.

No matter what the situation people are handling animals in, either mustering, yard work, processing, loading trucks, dairying or through slaughterhouses, there is a common theme or pattern, we work with our own instincts.

While this achieves a result quite often, i.e. most of us manage to get our animals to the yard; it is not always a way in which it is conducive to low stress on the animal and us.

LSS can help you achieve calm, confident management of livestock in all situations.

Schools cater for someone who has little or no experience in handling stock as well as highly competent stockpeople.

TRAINER

Rod Knight

Rod is a beef producer who grew up at Coonabarabran on his family’s property. In 1986 Rod won a scholarship, sponsored by the CWA, that enabled him to spend 4 months in the USA and Canada studying beef production, processing and marketing. On his return Rod worked as Executive Assistant to the chairman of the Meat industry Authority also running stock handling seminars across NSW for the authority.

Rod, his wife Isobel and their three children ran their beef breeding and fattening operation at Binnaway. While trading stock on agistment on many properties Rod was introduced to Bud Williams and adopted many of Buds methods immediately.

Rod joined LSS in 2002 to improve his skills further.

Now based at Tamworth Rod predominantly trades sheep & cattle. Through Rod’s involvement with Low Stress Stock Handling School he has a natural teaching ability balanced with real life practical experience.
